"BONE DRY" LAW

Broadway Crowded Like New Year's Eve as White Light Patrons Get Out.

Cafes, cabarets, private clubs and restaurants where liquor is served closed promptly at 1 A. M. to-day in obedience to an order from the Mayor that will remain in effect until the war is over. As far as could be observed, there was no effort on the part of any one to evade the regula-

It was Broadway's first glimpse of conditions such as Paris and London have had since the war started. The White Way presented a curious appearance soon after 1 o'clock, when "Home, Sweet Home" in the various resorts had sped the guests into the

In places there was congestion such as had not been seen since New Year's Eve. The thoroughfare was so choked up with automobiles and taxis the cars ran with difficulty, and the police, not having anticipated it, encountered trouble in straightening out the traffic tangle. Many persons refused to believe the "lid was on." and were convinced only after making numerous trips to back doors and to places known not to have been closed for a decade.

In many after-the-theatre places the managers doused the outside lights at 12.50, and announced the fuside lights would be out shortly after I. Within a short time after that hour Broadway had few of its Sample Each Free by Mail bright lights left.

A trip along the Bowery showed that bars, not closed for years, quit business at 1 o'clock. It most eases / screens were removed so a full view of the interior, bar and back room alike, could be had from the street. Some of the back rooms are reached through hallways. Tals morning padlocks and chains were on the hall doers for the first time,

The old ruse of buying a supply of liquor in advance and consuming it at leisure will not be permitted. The varie sufres of New York's night life put the lid on punctually and patrons were urged to wind up their meals and depart. Many Gmers seemed to recove the movetty. ment to-day that the order for the change in procedure grew out of the incidents attending the execution of Petrius van der Corput, more than a week ago, when appeals to the courts resulted in the issuance of temporary stays of sentence that delayed the execution dangerously close to the expira-tion of the time set by the court.

Department officials decided also that no attention will be paid to telephonic instructions issued by any person other than the Governor.

PORTLAND, Me., May I.—Tony Loudis of Albany, N. Y., was arrested to-day on complaint of several Boy Scouts, who alleged that he had wiped his hands on an American fiag. He was released on bond for a hearing to-mor-
